Police Apprehend Suspects with use of RCMP K-9

An east end business reported an incident involving the siphoning of fuel from their business vehicles. The business provided the police with a description of the vehicle involved. Subsequently, the Police located another suspicious vehicle in the vicinity and attempted to conduct a traffic stop. However, the vehicle fled from the police, leading to the disengagement from Police.

Later, Police successfully located the suspect vehicle described in the original complaint. As a result, a 38-year-old female and a 43-year-old male were both arrested and charged with theft under and possession of methamphetamine. They were subsequently released on an Appearance Notice.

Additionally, the vehicle that fled from police was located, but with no occupants inside. The RCMP K-9 unit was deployed and successfully tracked down two individuals. A 54-year-old female and a 49-year-old male were arrested and held in custody. The female was later released with no charges, while the male faced charges including criminal flight from police, dangerous driving, possession of stolen property, possession of cocaine, and possession of break and enter tools. The arrested male also had outstanding warrants from other jurisdictions and was brought before a Justice of the Peace to determine his release.

Domestic Assault

Police received a report from a female that she was assaulted by her ex-boyfriend. The male was located and arrested for the assault and brought back to cells. Male was uncooperative, intoxicated and was released when sober on an undertaking.

Theft of Bikes

A report was received of a break and enter into a locked shed from a downtown location. Police attended and determined bikes were stolen. Incident is still under investigation. Police located one of the stolen bikes.

Theft from Vehicle

A locked vehicle was broken into in the downtown area where a purse was stolen. Police will be looking into surveillance in the area.

Morning Giggle

A 5-year-old developed a strong interest in spelling once she learned to spell STOP. After that, she tried to figure out her own words. From the back seat of the car she'd yell, "Mom, what does fgrpl spell?" "Nothing," her mom said. Sitting at breakfast she'd suddenly ask, "Mom, what does doeb spell?" "Nothing," mom answered. This went on for several weeks. Then one afternoon as they sat coloring in her room she asked, "Mom, what does lmdz spell?" The mother smiled at her and said, "Nothing, sweetheart." The 5-year-old carefully set down her crayon, sighed and said, "Boy, there sure are a lot of ways to spell Nothing!"

THE MORNING BITE

Stir-fry is easy to make at home once you have all the ingredients

While wandering the aisles of our local grocery store without a plan, we happened upon a display of thinly sliced, tenderized beef. What to make? Tacos? Sandwiches? Stir-fry ultimately won out.

Quickly cooked beef, with an abundance of vegetables tucked in a wrapper, moo shu style, ranks among the family's favorite take-out dinners. Easy enough to make at home if you have all the ingredients. The recipe that follows relies on very thinly sliced beef for quick-cooking tenderness and an assortment of thin sticks of vegetables.

Eileen Yin-Fei Lo, a renowned cookbook author, tells us in "Mastering the Art of Chinese Cooking" that this universally popular dish originated in the kitchens of the imperial court in Beijing. There, the cooks put great effort into precise cutting of everything to show their effort.

Although I like to treat my family like royalty, I take shortcuts in the prep here. Shredded cabbage provides the bulk of the vegetables. Add in a bit of shredded bok choy if desired. Packaged, shredded carrots get added along with sliced, canned bamboo shoots.

Lean beef that has been trimmed and tenderized offers up big flavor with a short cook time. Some butchers send tough steaks through a needling machine to break up tough tissue. Alternatively, you can put trimmed steaks, such as skirt and flank, between sheets of heavy plastic wrap and pound them thin with a meat mallet to 1/4-inch thickness. Pork tenderloin and boneless skinless chicken thighs can replace beef if desired.

The trick to cooking lean beef, and other lean protein, is to use high heat to generate browning, which translates to flavor. Cook the meat in batches so there's direct contact with the hot surface of the pan.

When it comes to wrappers, look for paper-thin moo shu wrappers, also known as spring roll wrappers, in the freezer section of Asian markets. Thin flour tortillas or ready-made crepes work just as well. The wrappers heat nicely in a covered dish or wrapped in plastic in the microwave oven.

If you want some extra heat, stir a little chile paste into hoisin sauce and pass for guests to smear on their wrappers before rolling it up.

Spicy Moo Shu Beef with Vegetables (Makes 4 servings)

Note: Ask the butcher to tenderize the steak for you or pound it yourself with a meat mallet. The scrambled eggs here are optional, but add a lovely texture that is worth the effort.

Sauce:

- 1/4 cup hoisin sauce
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon each: rice vinegar, cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon Asian chili paste with garlic or red pepper hot sauce
or gochujang chile paste

Stir-fry:

- 1 pound trimmed beef steak, such as skirt, flank or sirloin

THE MORNING BITE

JeanMarie
Brownson

4 green onions, trimmed
1 cup (2 ounces) thinly sliced fresh shitake mushroom caps (no stems)
4 cups shredded cabbage (such as Napa) or bok choy or a combination
1 cup finely shredded carrots
1/2 of an 8-ounce can sliced bamboo shoots, drained, rinsed
1 cup fresh bean sprouts, well rinsed, optional
3 or 4 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro
2 cloves garlic, crushed
2 tablespoons refrigerated ginger puree or finely chopped fresh ginger
2 large eggs, lightly beaten, optional
Vegetable oil for high-heat cooking, such as expeller pressed canola oil, sunflower or safflower oil

Serving:

12 moo shu wrappers, or thin flour tortillas or crepes

1. For sauce, put all ingredients into a small dish. Add 1/4 cup water. Mix well.
2. For the stir-fry, pound the steak on a cutting board with a meat mallet to 1/4-inch thickness. Use a very sharp knife to thinly slice the steak, across the grain, into thin matchsticks. Cut green onions crosswise into 2-inch lengths. Cut the pieces into thin matchsticks
3. Prepare the mushrooms, cabbage, carrots, bamboo shoots, bean sprouts, cilantro, garlic and ginger. If using, beat the eggs together in a small bowl. Have all the ingredients near the cooking surface. Put the moo shu wrappers in a covered microwave-safe dish or wrap in plastic wrap.
4. Heat a wok or large well-seasoned cast-iron skillet over medium heat until hot enough to make a drop of water sizzle on contact. Add 1 tablespoon oil, then add the beaten eggs. Scramble with a heatproof spatula until soft curds form, then remove to a plate.
5. Add 1 more tablespoon oil to the pan. Increase the heat under the pan to medium-high. Add 1/3 of the beef and stir-fry until browned and golden on the edges, 2 to 3 minutes. Remove with a slotted spoon to a plate. Repeat with remaining beef adding more oil as needed.
6. Add 1 more tablespoon oil to the pan and add the mushrooms, garlic and ginger; stir-fry 1 minute. Add the cabbage, carrots and bamboo shoots. Stir-fry until vegetables are crisp-tender, 2 to 3 minutes. Return the beef to the pan along with the sauce. Cook and stir until hot. Add cooked eggs, green onions and bean sprouts. Stir briefly. Remove from heat. Sprinkle with cilantro.
7. Microwave the wrappers on high (100% powder) until hot, about 1 minute. Serve beef mixture with wrappers. Roll up and serve.
