Morning Gigue

Little Johnny came home from the playground with a bloody nose, black eye, and torn clothing. It was obvious he'd been in a bad fight and lost. While his father was patching him up, he asked his son what had happened.

"Well, Dad," said Little Johnny, "I challenged Larry to a duel. And, you know, I gave him his choice of weapons."

"Uh-huh," said the father, "that seems fair."

"I know, but I never thought he'd choose his sister!"

WITH RON, WE TRUST CATHOLIC EDUCATION

Reference letters provide a personalized endorsement of a candidate's skills, character and work ethic. They help validate claims by providing crucial context to skill sets and character in ways a resumé cannot. Here is what others have to say about Ron:

"Ron is a knowledgeable and creative administrator. Ron is knowledgeable about a variety of educational leaders and initiatives. Ron has excellent qualities as a leader. He looks for new opportunities to develop unique programming in the school that will bring new enthusiasm into the school such as the Big Drum program. Ron is extremely resourceful. He is able to quickly find answers to questions as needed and to access resources. Ron's leadership in the area of faith formation and faith development has been a breath of fresh air. Ron has been the most passionate principal regarding faith that I have been blessed to work with. He believes in promoting Catholic education that is authentic and real. Ron Baier is a very unique principal. He possesses youthful enthusiasm for teaching and leading and a willingness to go beyond what is expected of him. He puts Christ first in our school and as a leader."

— Rosemarie Rackow, Grade 4 Teacher

"Visionary leadership is a strength of Ron Baier. He sees the big picture when analyzing any situation. Ron does not overreact or act hastily to make a rash decision. He takes the time to research and gather information before forming a response and then takes the time to clearly articulate his response to those concerned. He is a Faith model to all of us at St. Martin's School. His stated mission is to lead the school and community on our Faith journey, a task in which he excels. To become a change agent takes skill and courage, both qualities that Ron possesses."

— Mr. Rae Molzan, Assistant Principal, St. Martin's School

Ron is a leader for our children, our teachers, our community, for the present and the future. If children could vote, they would vote for:

Miso soup, a taste of Japan

Diane Rossen Worthington

I just returned from Japan. Out of the many things I tasted and enjoyed was miso soup. Each meal was accompanied with this delicious dish. Every soup had its own distinctive taste — some richer and darker, some lighter. Sometimes it was served at the beginning of the meal and others toward the end of the meal. I prefer it at the beginning of a meal.

While there are numerous miso soup mixes on the market, this recipe calls for making a dashi base first and then preparing the miso soup. The dashi base is an infusion of seaweed (edible kelp) and bonito flakes that becomes a very flavorful stock. Once you try this, you'll want to have the dashi available in your refrigerator for a quick and satisfying weekday meal. It's best to locate an Asian market for these ingredients.

Miso is a soybean paste, and there are a few types. Light yellow miso, called shiro miso, is used here for its slightly sweet flavor. You can also add tiny little clams to this soup. Other flavorings sometimes added to miso soup include sugar and rice wine, as well as dried seaweed.

Miso Soup (Serves 4)

For the dashi:

- 1/4 cup kombu flakes (seaweed)
- 5 cups water
- 1 cup bonito flakes

For the miso soup:

- 1/4 cup light yellow miso paste (shiro miso)
- 5 cups dashi
- 2 thin slices ginger
- 1 package enoki mushrooms, trimmed
- 1 cup 1/2-inch cubed firm tofu
- 2 tablespoons sliced scallions

To make the dashi:

1. In a large saucepan combine the konbu with cold water. Heat the mixture on medium heat until the soup comes to a slow simmer and not a boil. Remove from the heat, cover and let stand for about 5 minutes. Strain the konbu out of the broth and return it to another pan.
2. Reheat the dashi, making sure not to bring it to a boil or it will become bitter. When it is just beginning to simmer, remove it from the heat and add the bonito flakes. Once the flakes are submerged, let sit for 30 seconds. Strain the dashi into a container or pan and use for miso soup. Refrigerate, covered, until using.

For the miso soup:

1. In a large saucepan combine the miso paste, dashi and ginger; whisk to combine. Bring to a simmer on medium-high heat. Cover the pan and reduce the heat to low, allowing the soup to cook for about 3 minutes.
2. Remove the ginger. Add the mushrooms, tofu and scallions and bring to a simmer. Cook another minute or until the tofu is heated through and the mushrooms are just cooked. Taste for seasoning.
3. To serve: Ladle into serving bowls and serve immediately.

Women represent about half of Alberta's population, but did you know they only make up about one-third of students in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics programs – commonly known as STEM – and just one-quarter of people working in STEM careers?

When women are empowered to follow their passions and chase their dreams, we unlock new potential, drive economic growth, and build a stronger, more vibrant Alberta. That's why our United Conservative government has proudly designated the third week of October as Women in STEM Week.

Our government wants to build a future where everyone has a fair chance to succeed and where new ideas can become real. By highlighting and celebrating women in STEM, we're showing more girls and women across Alberta that their ideas matter and their talents are important.

This is also why our government has the Women in STEM Scholarship – to help women step into fields where they're under-represented, break down barriers, and open doors to education and exciting careers. This scholarship awards $2,500 annually to 50 Alberta women for their studies in STEM-related fields where their gender is underrepresented, or to women actively working to promote gender equality within their chosen fields.

Thanks to the University of Alberta's Augustana Campus right here in Camrose, women who are passionate about applied sciences can take STEM courses close to home. Having these options nearby make it easier for women to explore their interests and build meaningful careers in STEM.

This week, and every week, we celebrate the incredible contributions of women in STEM and promise to keep supporting the next generations of women leaders and innovators.

MEET A PRODUCER Red Shed Malting Penhold, Alberta

For the avid craft beer lover in Alberta, Red Shed Malting is a name that you often come across. Whether it's on a brewery posting about their latest collaboration, the side of a can as part of the ingredients or accumulating yet another Community Builder Industry Award at the Alberta Beer Awards, Red Shed Malting seems to be everywhere. That's no coincidence – with multiple generations of the Hamill family running all sides of the operation, there is no way you can enjoy craft beer in Alberta without hearing the name.

Alberta Demand

Red Shed Malting currently supplies a variety of malts to about half of the craft breweries in Alberta. Some of the breweries use their base malt to provide the sugars for the fermentation process, while others capitalize on their specialty malts to create a pantheon of beer styles that rivals any booming craft beer scene. The specialty malts are where Red Shed really shines.

At any given time, Red Shed has about sixteen different malt varieties. From their base malts like the Parkland Pale and Penhold Wheat Malt, to their Black Bird (the first black malt ever drum roasted in Alberta), they have a malt that is perfect for every craft beer. They will also do special contract malts, and even have a secret malt currently hiding out in an unlabeled bin!

One of the favourite collaborations they've done is with Blindman Brewing and 24-2 Draft Horses, a local farm that grow and harvest their malt-grade barley all by old-school horse-powered equipment. The barley is then custom malted by Red Shed to produce a complex but delicate English style malt. Blindman Brewing goes on to create the 24-2 Stock Ale, which is one of the most hyper-local beers to be produced, with it being locally grown, harvested, cleaned, malted, and brewed. Stock Ales are traditional British ales that are strong and fruity – closely related to barley wine. It's not a style typically seen in modern times, adding to the uniqueness of this collaboration. Some of last year's batch was also aged in a bourbon barrel with some Brettanomyces yeast, adding depth, oakyness, and funkiness into the flavour profile.

Their products are not only used by Alberta breweries, but also some distilleries as well. One of these, Bridgeland Distillery in Calgary, uses Red Shed Penhold Wheat and Barley to create a bourbon-style spirit that won gold at the Alberta Spirits Awards, and Silver at the Canadian Artisan Spirit Awards for Young Whisky. (The Barrel Aged 24-2 Stock Ale also won Gold at the 2021 Alberta Beer Awards.)

Alberta on the Plate showcases the incredible bounty that is grown and produced across our beautiful province. Throughout the year, we celebrate and share the Alberta food story by introducing you to the people and businesses that grow, raise, create, and support the agri-food industry in Alberta. Every August during Alberta Local Food Week, Alberta on the Plate hosts a ten-day, province-wide dine around festival. Get more info at:
